

BUDGET RESOLUTION A PRODUCT OF SECRECY

(Mr. DOGGETT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, this morning around 1 or 1:15 a budget resolution was adopted by the House Committee on the Budget. It is the product of secrecy, of task forces meeting, working as a shadow government in this Capitol, to design a budget resolution. And if you had sat there from 10 in the morning until a little after 1 in the morning the next day as I have, you would understand why it has been necessary to conceive this budget resolution in secret, because the members of the Republican caucus have again broken their word.

They have broken their word about having an open House, which they promised on the first day. And the reason it was so essential for them to operate in secrecy is that they are breaking their word to seniors across this country. They are coming after Medicare to the tune of almost $300 billion in cuts, directly out of the pockets of American seniors.

Finally, after being pressed, they admitted that copayments are going up for American seniors and that many seniors will see a cut in their benefits. They just do not know who has been marked for the most pain.

FEDERAL BUDGET MUST BE BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL

(Mr. JONES asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, time is running out.

If Congress fails to address the out-of-control Federal budget, it will soon be too late for our children's future.

If we fail to end the irresponsible spending that Washington has engaged in for the last 25 years, we can say goodbye to the American dream, and say hello to a diminished standard of living for our kids.

The consequences are just too great to imagine if we do not bring the Federal budget into balance. In just 10 years, at current projections, the Federal Government will be unable to pay for anything beyond the service on the debt and entitlements. That means no defense, no law enforcement, or any other domestic spending.

Mr. Speaker, Republicans are committed to bringing budgetary sanity out of budgetary chaos. We will balance the budget by eliminating outdated agencies, waste, and programs that simply do not work. All the liberal Democrats can offer is class warfare rhetoric and posture for the best political angle. They totally fail to realize that the future of America is on the line and that time is running out.

GOP BUDGET RESOLUTION

(Mr. FOGLIETTA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FOGLIETTA. Mr. Speaker, is it any surprise how the Republicans would reach a balanced budget in 7 years? By breaking our contract with senior citizens, with veterans, with the most vulnerable people in our society, and with those of us who live in cities.

I take the floor today to challenge just one aspect of this disastrous plan, that which would bankrupt American mass transit. The best way that we can empower people and bring them out of poverty and welfare is to help them get jobs and to keep those jobs. This requires meeting practical needs, job training, child care, health insurance, and mass transit. We must help people get to their jobs on safe, dependable, and economical public transit.

Thus I rise to oppose some of the aspects of this mean-spirited budget plan and to oppose, as strongly as I can, the end of the Federal Government's commitment to mass transportation.

ZERO DEFICIT BUDGET RESOLUTION PASSED

(Mr. HOKE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HOKE. Mr. Speaker, Rome burns and Nero fiddles. Since yesterday at this time, the national debt has increased $548 million. That is almost $23 million every single hour, $383,000 every single minute, $9,000 every second. Every newborn baby enters the world owing $17,300 of his or her share of the national debt. That means that between yesterday morning at this time and today, we have on a per capita basis increased the debt about $2.10 each.

Thomas Jefferson said that "We should consider ourselves unauthorized to saddle posterity with our debts, and morally bound to pay them ourselves." Yesterday the Republican members of the Committee on the Budget, joined by one of the Democrat members of the committee, passed what will be a zero, goose egg, nothing, no deficit in the year 2002, balanced budget resolution.

MEDICARE RECIPIENTS PLACED AT GREAT RISK

(Mrs. CLAYTON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. CLAYTON. Mr. Speaker, we now know that the majority proposes to reduce Medicare spending by $250 billion over the next 7 years. This will mean the average Medicare patient's benefits will be reduced by $132 in 1996 to $2,000 in the balanced budget year 2002. Out-of-pocket costs will rise as well. Each American on Medicare, and their families, can expect to be responsible for thousands of dollars of additional costs per year. The import of these huge spending reductions are profound—less people will have access to quality health care, and our Nation's hospitals will be put at great risk.

As Medicare goes under the knife, so too does funding for medical education, especially teaching hospitals, such as Pitt Memorial, in my congressional district. Hospitals like Pitt Memorial receive about 30 percent of their funding for resident training. They get additional funds for graduate medical education programs. These funds provide such hospitals with the financial cushion so that they can continue to provide care for Medicare patients. Who will pick up the slack for this essential funding—certainly not the States, the counties or the people? I invite my colleagues from across the aisle to really consider the impact that these deep spending reductions will have on millions of seniors and their families. This will end Medicare, as we know it.

Mr. Speaker, if these huge reductions go into effect, Medicare patients and their families will suffer.

TIME WARP

(Mr. CHRYSLER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CHRYSLER. Mr. Speaker, my colleagues on the other side of the aisle are caught in a time warp.

They are still thinking like the Congress of old, where through the magic of baseline budgeting, Democrats could claim they were cutting spending when actually they were spending more than ever.

Now they come to the floor and claim that Republicans are cutting Medicare, when the cold, hard facts are just the opposite.

As you can see by this chart, the per capita expenditure in Medicare will increase from $4,700 to $6,300 over the next 7 years.

In Democrat parlance, that is a cut, but to most Americans that is a significant increase.

Coupled with our reforms, which will weed out waste and fraud, we will protect, improve, and preserve Medicare far into the next century.

Mr. Speaker, House Democrats who come to the floor today will continue to attack Republicans for cutting Medicare. But as this chart shows, the truth is far different from the Democrat version of reality.

MEDICARE CUTS PAY FOR TAX CUTS FOR WEALTHY

(Mr. ROMERO-BARCELÓ asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)
